DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

Examiner acknowledges response by applicant's representative received 2/28/02. Examiner further acknowledges the corrections/clarifications made to address the issues of the first action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 4, 12 & 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sui in view of Seibert.

Sui discloses a Disposable Table Cloth.

Regarding claims 1, 4, 12 & 13

Sui teaches:

- a fabric table cloth having a predetermined shape and size with a fastening member secured to the bottom surface of the border/tab (see figure 1);
 - a border which extends continuously around the circumference of the table cloth (see figures 1-5);
 - a tablecloth with flaps (see figures 1-5)
- and
- a tablecloth with Velcro Members (see figure 1A reference character "21")

Although Sui teaches a tablecloth with a border, he does not explicitly teach that his tablecloth has a border portion that is continuous. It would have been an obvious matter of design choice to make the tablecloth with a border of whatever form or shape was desired or expedient. A change in form or shape is generally recognized as being within the level of ordinary skill in the art, absent any showing of unexpected results.

The patent to Seibert discloses a Gaming Table Cloth.

Seibert is used to show that the method of manufacture of tablecloths would determine the texture and intricacies of such. This detail or lack of would present little or no difficulty in the art. Stretchable materials are well known.

Claims 5-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable
Rodebaugh et al in view of Sui and Schumann.

Regarding claims 5-7

Rodebaugh et al. discloses a Cover For Outdoor Table And Benches.

Rodebaugh teaches:

- a tablecloth with loops (a fastening member) attached to it (see figure 19 and col. 3, lines 5-8).

The patent to Sui discloses a Disposable Table Cloth, which utilizes a Velcro system.

The patent to Schumann discloses a Holding Device. His holding device teaches a hook body that has access to a grip tab/loop (see abstract and figure 1).

It has been held that a recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed apparatus is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus satisfying the claimed structural limitations.

Claims 8-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rodebaugh et al. in view Sui, Schumann (404) and Seibert.

Regarding claims 8-11

Rodebaugh et al. discloses a Cover For Outdoor Table And Benches.

Rodebaugh teaches:

- a tablecloth with loops (a fastening member) attached to it (see figure 19 and col. 3, lines 5-8).

The patent to Sui discloses a Disposable Table Cloth, which utilizes a Velcro system. Sui teaches:

- a fabric table cloth having a predetermined shape and size with a fastening member secured to the bottom surface of the border/tab (see figure 1);
 - a border which extends continuously around the circumference of the table cloth (see figures 1-5);
 - a table cloth with flaps (see figures 1-5)
- and
- a tablecloth with Velcro Members (see figure 1A reference character "21")

Although Sui teaches a tablecloth with a border, he does not explicitly teach that his tablecloth has a border portion that is continuous. It would have been an obvious matter of design choice to make the tablecloth with a border of whatever form or shape was desired or expedient. A change in form or shape is generally recognized as being within the level of ordinary skill in the art, absent any showing of unexpected results.

The patent to Schumann discloses a Holding Device. His holding device teaches a hook body that has access to a grip tab/loop (see abstract and figure 1).

It has been held that a recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed apparatus is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus satisfying the claimed structural limitations.

The patent to Seibert discloses a Gaming Table Cloth.

Seibert is used to show that the method of manufacture of tablecloths would determine the texture and intricacies of such. This detail or lack of would present little or no difficulty in the art. Stretchable materials are well known.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 2/28/2002 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues, on page 2 of his response, that the placement of the Velcro (fastener members) on the cited reference is different from the claimed invention. Examiner's position is that the placement of the fastener system does not change its' intended functionality. It has been held that a recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed apparatus is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus satisfying the claimed structural limitations.

Applicant further argues that the reference to Schumann discloses a 'single' holding device while applicant discloses a 'series of hooks'. This presents a situation of mere duplication, which presents little or no difficulty in the art.

Further, the reference to Seibert is merely used to show that the method of manufacture of tablecloths would determine the texture and intricacies of such. This detail or lack of would present little or no difficulty in the art. Stretchable materials are well known.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Kring, Ehrlich, Dougherty, Van Stratum, Figueroa, Walker, Conway et al., Schuman (404) & (864), Di Fronzo, Kweito et al., PirkI et al., Pacione, Brown and Hairston et al. are cited to show the state of art with respect to features of the claimed invention.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
